

Dear IJONTE Readers,

Welcome to the Volume 12, Issue 1 of IJONTE,

We publish this issue in memory of the founder and editor of IJONTE, Prof. Dr. Zeki Kaya who unfortunately passed away last August. We are very sorry for his loss since he contributed to educational sciences and helped researchers publish articles in IJONTE. He had been an editor of IJONTE for 11 years and published 2 issues yearly. He devoted himself passionately to IJONTE and dealt with every little detail. His contributions will never be forgotten.

In this issue there are 6 articles. The first article “Examination of The Relationship Between Fear of Negative Evaluation, Gender Role Stress, and Gender Equality of Female University Students” written by Fatos Bulut Ates and Emin Kurtuluş investigates the predictive effect of gender equality on gender role stress, and fear of negative evaluation of female university students.

The second article is written by Ferhat Karanfil with the title “Cases of EFL Teachers and Students towards Educational Inspection in Turkey: A Qualitative Inquiry” explored the role of education inspection currently performed by school principals.

The third article “Linguistic Imperialism” is written by Bahire Efe Özad, Ramadan Eyyam, Nazan Dogruer and Ipek Menevis and provides a short journey of the English language from colonization to penetration into all world languages as a result of developments in Internet technology.

The fourth article “Education Unions Through The Eyes of Teachers” is written by Mehmet Gökçebey, Neslişah Oral Toytok and Muhammet Köşker. In the research, the perspectives of unionized and non-unionized teachers were examined.

The fifth article “The Impact of Erasmus + Projects in Teaching and Learning English Processes” is written by Sedat Güngörmez and Arzu Cereci. The findings of the study showed that participating in international projects and mobilities strengthened the motivation of students in language learning.

The sixth “The Views of Primary School Teacher Nominees on the Language Applied in Teaching Mathematics” is written by Mine Bayar.

We wish you health, joy and comfort in 2021 and hope to meet again in the next issue of IJONTE.

We wish you success in your studies.

We wish you health, hope to meet again in the next issue of IJONTE.

Cordially.
